- Participants need to read and understand the materials posted on our website regarding the program and its objectives, itinerary and travel plans. Participants should contact IMG if questions arise.
- Participants are expected to work together as a team with consideration for fellow members.

IMG DISCRETION

- IMG requires Participants to be prepared physically, technically and psychologically for all programs and IMG reserves the right to dismiss a Participant from a program at any time based on any factors that IMG discovers.
- Participants must supply IMG true, complete and accurate information on the Participant Information form (including the information concerning training and prior mountaineering experience), Participant Medical Information form, and in any other written or oral communications.
- IMG reserves the right to dismiss any Participant or send any Participant down to lower altitude at any time if, in the sole judgment of IMG, it is in the best interest of that Participant or any other person.
- IMG reserves the right to change, alter or cancel the itinerary as, in IMG’S sole discretion, IMG finds necessary for the proper and safe conduct of the program.
- Participants acknowledge that IMG program plans are necessarily subject to change based on a number of factors, including but not limited to weather, terrain, changes in costs, and many other factors, and that IMG has complete discretion to effect any change of plans to accommodate any of these or other factors, including but not limited to increases in program fees, changes to the program schedule or itinerary, change of guides or staff, and changes to any means of conveyance, when deemed necessary or advisable, without notice and without allowance of refund and with the liability for any increased program fees, if any, to be borne by each participant.

OTHER TERMS AND CONDITIONS

- Participants authorize and release to IMG the use of their image in any photograph or video recording for any legal purpose of IMG.
- Participants understand that no guarantees have been made with respect to the program objectives.

- In the event of a program cancellation and upon refund to Participants of all program fee payments, IMG shall be released from any further liability to Participants, including but not limited to liability for additional costs Participants

IMG FORM 1: General Terms and Conditions (Page 2 of 2)

- may have incurred, pre-departure expenses, non-refundable advance purchase air tickets, equipment purchases and medical expenses.
- IMG's Turnaround Raincheck Credit Vouchers: IMG's owners understand the Mountain well enough to know there will be days when getting to the first camp is impossible and a small number of the scheduled programs will end in first day disappointment. Whenever a climbing group is unable to proceed to their camp on the first day of the program, the Company will attempt first to reschedule acceptable alternatives for the following day, or will offer a raincheck credit voucher equal to 50% of the cost of the customer's program to be applied to a program of equal or greater cost within 12 months. It is important to understand not only the disappointment the customer feels when the weather forces a first-day turnaround, but also the disappointment the guides feel. Having committed their availability to a program and planned on the earned income, IMG feels it is inappropriate to completely cancel their employment on the days that will suddenly no longer be required of them. IMG will offer these guides an opportunity to work the remaining scheduled days, or the guides can elect not to work and will not be compensated. IMG has used this formula in the past and it has worked well. Everyone (customer, employee and company) shares in some of the economic and emotional cost of unpredictable weather without any one party bearing the entire loss load.

PROGRAM FEES AND PAYMENTS

- Registration for IMG Rainier programs requires the completed IMG Rainier Application Package and a minimum $300 non-refundable application fee (check or Visa/Master Card only). Full payment is required at registration for 1 & 2-Day schools and for any programs that cost less than $600. Application Fees apply toward program fees.
- Final balance of fees is due at 90 days before the first scheduled date of the program. We encourage you to forward payment to our office prior to that time. If an alternative form of payment is not received at our office by that time, the Visa or Master Card we have on file will be automatically billed for any remaining balance. Please contact us if you feel your payment will not arrive by the due date. It is the participant's responsibility to adhere to the fee payment schedule. Late or non-payment of fees may result in cancellation of program reservations and forfeiture of all fees paid.

IMG incorporates the required Climbing Permit fees and Park Entrance fees mandated by the National Park Service (NPS) into our total advertised program cost. As a convenience to our customers, we collect these fees from you on behalf of the NPS and pass them through directly.

CANCELLATION, CHANGE AND REFUND POLICY

- All program cancellations must be made in writing by the participant to IMG. Program cancellations made greater than 90 days before the program date will result in refund of all fees paid less a $300 cancellation fee for each cancelled program. Cancellations made within 90 days of the program date will result in forfeiture of payments made. In the case of a cancellation and forfeiture of full trip fees, IMG will refund the cost of the NPS fees. All application and program fee payments are non-refundable and non-transferable; fees may not be held over for future season climbs or non-Rainier programs. We strongly recommend Participants purchase travel and trip cancellation insurance.
- Changes to program dates that are requested greater than 60 days before the customer's scheduled program will be allowed for Rainier programs of equal or greater value, subject to availability within the current calendar year, with a $100 change fee imposed. Changes made within 60 days of program are not allowed.

IMG FORM 4: Acknowledgement of Risk and Contract (Page 1 of 3)

IMPORTANT: THIS IS A LEGAL DOCUMENT

Please read and understand this document before signing. If you have any questions please consult us and/or your attorney. Please review and sign with spouse (or parent if minor).

INTERNATIONAL MOUNTAIN GUIDES, LLC. (hereinafter also referred to as "IMG") has taken care to assure that our Participants experience a rewarding mountaineering expedition. We wish to inform our Participants that mountaineering and foreign travel are not risk free. The same elements that contribute to the unique character and fun of exploring and climbing mountains, such as the physical exertion or outdoor living, can cause loss or damage to equipment, injury, illness, or in extreme cases, permanent trauma, paralysis, or death. We do not want to heighten or reduce your enthusiasm for the experience, but we do want you to know in advance what to expect and to be informed of some of the possible risks. We ask that you read this acknowledgement of risk and contract, sign it, and return the original documents to our office.

ACKNOWLEDGMENT OF RISK

You, the Participant, need to understand that you are going to be entering an environment with significant hazard and risks, including those associated with living, camping, traveling out of doors, and traveling in foreign countries that may be politically unstable, worldwide dangers associated with the war on terrorism, and with the forces of nature. Below is a list of the possible hazards but not all of the hazards you may encounter.

Travel is by vehicle and on foot. Travel by foot is over rugged unpredictable trail and off-trail terrain, including boulder fields, downed timber, river crossings, high mountain passes, snow and ice, glaciers, steep slopes, and slippery rocks. Attendant risks include vehicle accidents, falling, drowning, and others usually associated with such travel, as well as environmental risks. Many times the risks associated with transportation can be as great as the mountaineering risk itself. You assume the risk of all travel arranged by yourself or by IMG.

Meals are prepared over stoves and sometimes-open fires. Water often requires disinfecting before use. Camping hazards may include burns, tent fires, carbon monoxide poisoning, cuts, diarrhea and flu-like illness.

Environmental risks include rapidly moving, deep or cold water, insects, snakes, and predators including large animals, falling and rolling rock, lightning, avalanches, flash floods, and unpredictable forces of nature, including weather that may change to extreme conditions without notice. Additional risks are frostbite, high altitude illness, sunburn, heatstroke, dehydration, and other mild or serious conditions.

Climbing and Mountaineering are hazardous. The obvious accidents that occur in climbing are falling while climbing, whether you fall only a few feet, part way down the mountain, or all the way to the bottom. As you fall you may hit objects or the terrain in your path. If a rope stops your fall, the jolt from the rope may cause injury. Falling to the ground may cause serious injury from any height. In addition to the hazards of falling, falling objects may hit you. Rocks, ice, snow, climbing equipment and even people may fall and hit you as you are standing or while climbing.

Equipment may fail. The extreme conditions of the environment in which climbing and mountaineering equipment is used in conjunction with the damage caused by the environment can cause climbing equipment to fail. The rock or ice to which you are holding or to which you have placed protection may break, causing you to fall or causing your protection to pull out from the rock or ice. As you climb you may pull out protection from the rock or ice. You may experience injury from holding on to the rock or using equipment. You may also experience rope burns from handling the rope. There are many hazards associated with snow, ice, and glacier climbing. Ice climbing is a technical activity involving the use of technical equipment including ice axes and crampons. Ice axes must be used properly to be effective and to prevent injury to you or other people. Crampons have sharp points on the bottom and front of the boot. These points are dangerous to you and other people. Ice climbing involves cold, water, and steep terrain. Ice is constantly falling and can cause injury if you are hit. Other objects may fall and hit you due to thawing or being knocked down by the ice or other climbers.

Avalanches are often a threat in the mountains. An avalanche is snow and ice that has released from the mountain and is moving down the mountainside. If you are trapped in an avalanche you can be injured or suffocated by the avalanche or trapped in the avalanche, which may kill you. The avalanche debris may force you into a collision with other immovable objects, which might injure or kill you or you may be forced into a crevasse or over a cliff.

Glacier travel is always dangerous. Crossing crevasses or walking over snow bridges covering a crevasse can lead to a fall into a crevasse. Falling into a crevasse can cause injuries due to the fall or objects hitting you during and after your fall. You may also be injured while stopping in the bottom or wedging into the sides. Once in a crevasse you will be subject to cold and hypothermia. Another aspect of glacier travel to be aware of is the danger from seracs, large blocks of ice or snow you may need to walk near or around. Many times while crossing glaciers or hiking in the mountains, you will be in an area where seracs or ice can fall, injuring or killing you.

You may trek and climb at altitude to which you will not be accustomed. Altitude sickness is the term used to describe the effects on a human body at altitudes higher than the person is accustomed to. Altitude sickness is usually associated with nausea, headaches and a loss of appetite. Altitude sickness can lead to conditions that may result in death. You must understand that the mountaineering expedition in which you are about to participate includes a high degree of risk of hypothermia. High Altitude Pulmonary Edema (HAPE) and High Altitude Cerebral Edema (HACE) occur when you are at altitudes and have not acclimated properly. HAPE and HACE can be fatal if not recognized and treated quickly. Hypothermia is the name for a medical condition where the core body temperature drops to a point that the body is unable to maintain and heat itself. Hypothermia can quickly result in death.

You may be hours or days from any medical facility. In an emergency the people treating you may not have the same standards as hospitals or doctor's offices in the United States. You will need to be vigilant in your normal daily habits such as eating, hand-washing and bodily functions in order to not introduce dangerous bacteria, virus and diseases into your system.

Decisions are made by the IMG staff and Participants on a high altitude expedition based on a variety of perceptions and evaluations, which by their nature are imprecise and subject to errors in judgment. Participant understands and agrees to abide by these decisions. However, the Participant must exercise their own ability and thought in keeping safe and secure, and is solely liable for their safety and that absent direction from IMG it is his or her decision to travel, return home or descend at any time. Throughout the trip, Participant is responsible for his or her own safety and for the safety of other members of their expedition. Participant agrees to adhere to all decisions made by the employees, contractors, guides, owners and members of IMG at all times. Participant understands that those decisions may be based on many factors, including the overall safety of the group. Participant understands and agrees to those decisions, which are in fact the way most professionally conducted high-altitude expeditions operate.

There is a high level of stress and anxiety while undertaking any mountaineering expedition. In addition you may encounter or see sights, which may disturb you. It is also possible that some participants will suffer mental anguish or trauma from the experience or their injuries.

This list is not an exclusive or exhaustive list of possible risks, injuries, trauma, or accidents that may occur while mountaineering. Most of these injuries are rare and you are not likely to encounter them, however they have occurred and you need to know about them, as well as other possible injuries not mentioned above. Some injuries occur more often when the participants are using illegal drugs or alcohol or are not physically able to undertake the expedition, so the use of illegal drugs or alcohol will not be permitted on the trip while engaged in climbing or mountaineering.

IMG FORM 4: Acknowledgement of Risk and Contract (Page 3 of 3)
